The company regularly evaluates its work environment and the lifestyle habits of its people in order to implement initiatives adapted to needs. This is how the eKnergie Committee was created, made up of several people who take work-life balance and employee happiness seriously. This Committee recommends ideas that are approved by management and then implemented.

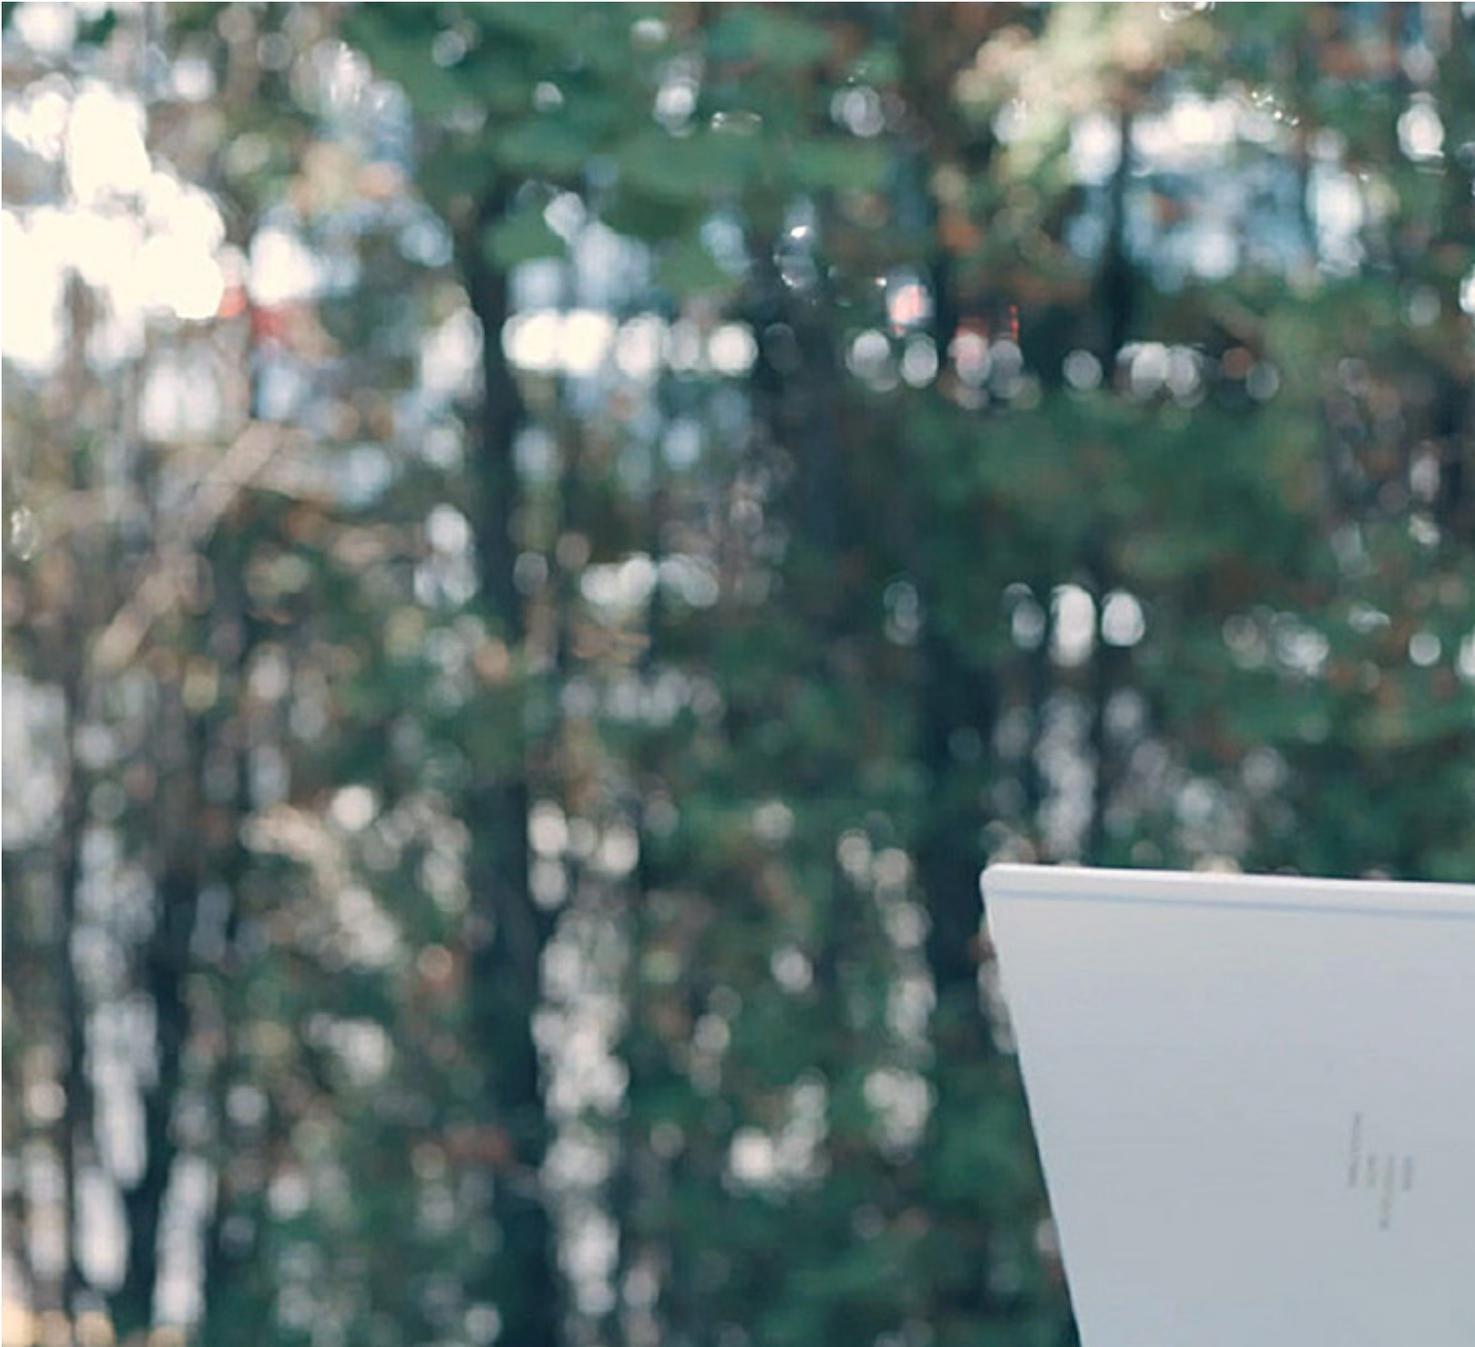

According to the questionnaire completed by employees, which measures the Total Health Index, the initiatives are proving successful. They showed strong improvement regarding all four pillars (physical health, mental health, personal life and workplace environment) in the last years and are showing a great deal of appreciation and confidence in the leadership.

In addition, Sandoz Canada is among the top 35 employers in Montreal according to MediaCorp. The company distinguishes itself by its competitive salaries and many employee benefits. Its head office is based in Boucherville, on the south shore, close to all services.
